Happy Holidays 2013 from Charlene, Gavin & Morgana

It's been another busy year! Morgana started off 2013 by completing an intense audition process for the Visual Arts program at Canterbury High School. After much anticipation, she was rewarded with an acceptance letter in March. In addition to the excitement of being accepted into Canterbury, Morgana had two of her short films accepted at several festivals. She attended the screening of one of her films at the Toronto International Film Festival in April. She has kept up her martial arts training in both Karate and Kobudo, and received her 2nd black belt in the Spring - this one for Kobudo. In June she graduated from the Montessori School she has been at since she was 19 months old! As luck would have it, many of her classmates are also going to Canterbury.

In July, Morgana said goodbye to Mom and Dad for her 3rd year at French camp in St. Donat, Quebec. When she came back, we had a glorious family vacation in Maui for 2 weeks! We could have easily never come back. We enjoyed the beaches, snorkelling, watching the Sunset from a volcano at 10,000 feet, a luau, and saw beautiful scenery on the road to Hana. Gavin and Morgana even ziplined down the West Maui Mountains! Morgana decided to start high school with a new short hair cut, and suddenly she looked so much older than her 14 years! As this card is being written, Morgana is working with a composer to complete the score for her latest short film, GIFTS. We are planning a screening in 2014, and a trailer will be coming early in the new year. You can stay updated by subscribing to Morgana's blog at morganamckenzie.com. Hope to see you over the holidays!
